

Username and Aliases

A username is a unique login and password combination at WizMailer. Aliases specify what email addresses you want to receive mail at. A username can have as many aliases attached to it as you want. After you add a domain to your account, you must also add aliases before you can receive any mail at this domain. Generally you will want to have one username (account) per person, and you may have multiple aliases attached to that username. Aliases are added under Settings -> Mail Aliases & Consolidation -> Mail Aliases.
